G. E. Furbush

We respectfully dedicate this book to Roosevelt High School's new principal, George E. Furbush. During the short time he has been here, he has already inspired in all of us a feeling of great respect for his executive abilities, and one of admiration for his friendly, helpful manner. From the time of his graduation from Stanford University in 1897 until today, Mr. Furbush has accumulated a long record of splendid service to the public schools of this state. He has taught at Livermore High School, at the Haight School in Alameda, and for nine years he was a principal of the Benecia High School, and supervising principal of the township schools. He was principal of McClymonds High School for six years, until the change, which we consider their loss and our gain, sent him here to guide our course at Roosevelt. We feel that Mr. Furbush is the type of man to lead and encourage us to the highest point of achievement attainable; therefore, in appreciation of the way he has guided us in his first term here, we, the students of Roosevelt High School, respectfully dedicate to him this Lariat.

SPANNING THE TERMS

Back in the spring of 1934 Roosevelt opened its doors and admitted 225 frightened scrubs into its fold. Out of that class, 124 students remained at graduation time. Besides having had many prominent members, it was also recognized as the last class of scrubs to promenade the two decks of the old Roosevelt, and the second class to graduate from the new building. After returning from vacation as high sophomores they were welcomed to the "Roosevelt Village." What a difference! Instead of a two-story building and long halls to walk 'round and 'round, the sophs found themselves wandering in and out of cottages scattered over the area of a block. The junior year fairly floated by, not only because of many school activities, but because of the rain that flooded the alleys between the cottages. What senior doesn't remember jumping puddles and dodging umbrellas on the way to class? Time passed on swift wings! Those 225 scrubs, now boiled down to approximately one-half, who not so long ago entered Roosevelt, found themselves in the most important part of high school life—the senior year. Everything seemed to come at once. During this time many of the old traditions of Roosevelt were revived. For instance, the Lariat, the term play, the annual Roosevelt Christmas Pageant, and many clubs that could not be carried on out in the "village." But, the most important affair concerning the high seniors was the Senior Ball. The gym was transformed into a colorful ballroom for the event, but, despite the gay time there was also a feeling of sadness in the air because it was the last time the high senior class would meet together.

Finally the last day came, and the high seniors presented their usual Senior Assembly for the students of Roosevelt. Then that night they donned gowns, marched to their places, and received their diplomas. Tears and smiles intermingled as they filed slowly out. Once more Roosevelt opened its doors, but this time to allow 124 poised, grown-up students to leave its fold and try their luck in the world.

CABINET

Composed of the representatives of each class; three executive members, Gwen Walk, Student Body President, Lois DeFord, Editor-in-Chief, Vincent Giantvalley, Yell Leader; and Delsie Malsbury, hold-over member; the cabinet is advised by Miss Luttie Ruch.

Second row: Jack McGann, Elva Lindroth, Elinor Kenaston and Phyllis Hansen. Seated: Lois DeFord and Frank Jorgensen.

LOW SENIORS

First in class elections for the fall term, the L12's, on Wednesday, October 14, chose as president, Harriet Schlavin; vice-president, Joe Vogel; and secretary, Mary Jane Anderson; with Betty McAndrews L12 representative, also secretary of the student Cabinet. Representing the homerooms were Geraldine Coughlin, Betty McAndrews, Silvia Bruce, Joe Vogel, Edwin Cryer, John Forsee and Frank Steinbrenner. One of the principal social functions of the semester for both low and high seniors was the senior informal held in the combined gyms on November 5. Featured on the program were Phyllis Hansen, who presented a skit, and Mary Jane Anderson, tap dancer, both L12's. Contributing to the success of the affair were several low twelve committee members which included Harriet Schlavin, Betty McAndrews, Elizabeth Althaus, Maria Denend, Margaret Anderson, Joe Vogel and Perry Bardellini; with the aid of Miss Jennie Hansen, class advisor. In the field of sports come several students from this class. Football claimed, among others, Del Eisen, captain of the squad; Johnny Matulich, Leroy Nelson, Jimmy Pastor, Jack Moffett, and Jack McGann. Basketball, track and baseball will find such players as Jack Stafford, Jim Corbett, Frank Stienbrenner, Ed Cryer, Nelson Dawson, Howard Thomas, Bob Whitlow, and Augie Cova. Excelling in G. A. A. sports were found Bobbie Hoover, Louise Fulton, Harriet Schlavin, Betty McAndrews, Dorothy Basl, Helen Marks and Gladys McCarthy. Among those leading in scholarship were Ella Hanzel, Jean McGarvie, Perry Bardellini, and Joe Costa. Heading the student body for the spring semester will be Jack Stafford, president, and Ed Warren, head yell leader, from the present L12 class. Prominent Crimson staff members from this class will include Lionel Holmes, editor-in-chief, and Elinor Kenaston, news editor.

HIGH JUNIORS

Holding the positions of high junior officers for the fall semester were: Dick Doyal, president; Sherman Medusa, vice-president; Christine Wallace, secretary-treasurer; and Francis Rogers, cabinet representative. Class adviser was Mrs. Hulda Conklin.

LOW JUNIORS

Fall semester officers chosen by the L11 class were: President, Martin Wright; vice-president, John Parente; and secretary, Alice Borges; with Gerry Shainin as Cabinet representative. Miss Florence Jordan advised the class.

HIGH SOPHOMORES

High tens had as president Wilfred Leonard, elected during the spring term while a low ten. Holding the position of vice-president and secretary, respectively, were Jack Wilde and Grace Colombo; with Lois Garland as Cabinet representative. Acting as class advisor was Miss Rhoda McRae.

LOW SOPHOMORES

Low sophomores held a late election, as officers will continue to hold their position during the spring term. Chosen to head the class were: Harold Cooprider, president; Gerald Barker, vice-president; Mary Linsten, secretary; and Isabel Dekas, Cabinet representative. Miss Nessie Hobbs acted as class advisor.

CHI DELTA

R. O. T. C.

With one hundred and forty-one cadets enrolled at the beginning of the term, the Roosevelt R. O. T. C. unit started an eventful half year of work. The roster included twenty-eight boys in the R. O. T. C. band, with eleven officers, fifteen sergeants, and thirteen corporals in direct command of the hundred and forty-one cadets. This term the battalion held three parades with the two companies competing for an honor streamer. Silent drill teams of officers and non-commissioned with speakers on R. O. T. C. attended many fraternal organizations such as the Fruitvale Mason Eagles, Seventh Aerie, and auxiliary Fruitvale Woodmen and Neighbors of the Woodcraft. Two junior high schools, Garfield and Bret Harte, were also visited. Speakers in R.O.T.C. were Captain Robert Nagel, Sergeant Bill Zock, and Corporal Robert Regan. The P. T. A. of Garfield witnessed the drill. Roosevelt R. O. T. C. participated in the Armistice Day parade along with five other Oakland high schools. After the parade a free lunch and football game were enjoyed by the cadets. Officers and non-commissioned officers held a meeting every Wednesday night to discuss plans and problems of the R. O. T. C. A competitive examination of officers for the positions of colonel, lieutenant colonel, and adjutant, were given during the middle of the term with John Avellar receiving the second highest post, executive officer with the rank of lieutenant colonel. The last five weeks of the term were spent by all cadets studying theoretical subjects. Subjects by the student officers were military organization, courtesy, discipline and musketry, first aid, scouting and patrolling, map reading, and contest principles.

ORCHESTRA

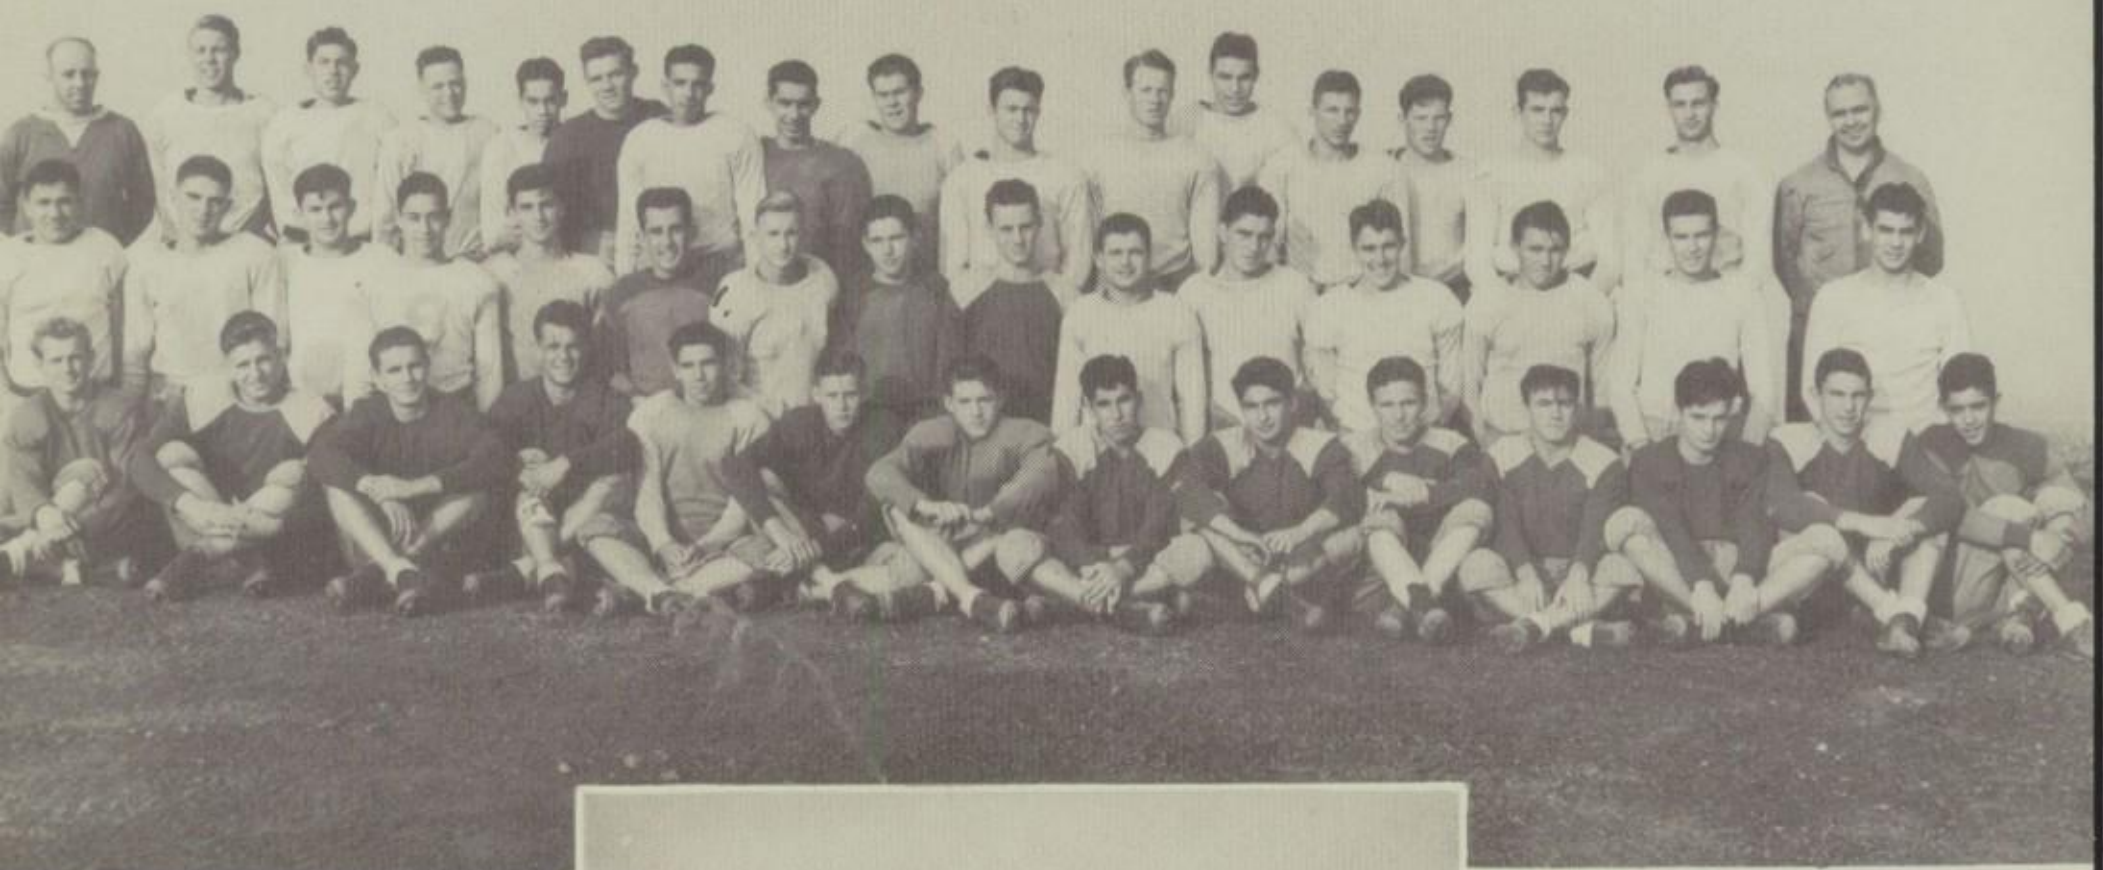
MUSIC GROUPS

Completing one of its most successful terms, according to A. C. Olker, instructor, the Roosevelt orchestra is looking forward to an even more successful spring term. A concert presented to students of Alvarado High School and to other towns were included in the activities of this group. Several members were also chosen for the all-Oakland High School symphony orchestra. Thirty-five pieces comprise the orchestra. With little chance of showing what they could do, but looking forward to next year's competition, the R. O. T. C. band has, besides playing for the cadet unit, contributed the music for rallies and various athletic events. The Christmas pageant brought forth the work and voices of a picked choral group. Participants were selected from the choral classes and from any other interested students who volunteered their services in the festival.

G. A. A. CABINET

Seated: Leta Craft, Pearl Gamble, Vesta Ahrens, Louise Fulton. Standing: Ruth Buntain, Harriet Schlavin, Eleanor Winnie, Mildred DeMonte, Margaret Anderson, Geraldine Coughlin, Helen Marks, Muriel Watry.

G. A. A. sports for the fall term were definitely begun during the last two weeks of September. Archery, crew, swimming, tennis, basketball, and badminton were the G. A. A. sports. New girls were welcomed at the Big and Little Sister Party September 17. This was the first big party of the term. Delegates attended a G. A. A. federation meeting at University High October 17. Lunch was served and various games played with a few from each school participating. The annual Mother-Daughter party was held in the girls' gym October 23. At the closing meeting January 13, awards were given and new officers installed. Farewells were extended by the seniors. The physical education department is advised by Miss Jennie Hansen, Miss Nessie Hobbs, and Mrs. Lillian Schuette. Mrs. Ada Dykes is the secretary. The G. A. A. is under the supervision of Mrs. Schuette.



The 1936 Roosevelt aggregation did not possess championship caliber, due mostly to lack of experience of its members, but they gave the spectators of their seven games a great many thrills. In their first game the Teds lost to Castlemont, O.A.L. winners, by a 6 to 0 count. This contest could easily have been a tie or a win for the Cowboys, inexperience costing them a couple of touchdown opportunities. The Riders combined team work with plenty of fight in the Tech game, in which they were supposed to get trounced, to come out on the long end of a 7 to 0 score. Short passes and long end runs were responsible for the smashing of the Bulldog machine. Against McClymonds, the Rambling Reds displayed a dazzling running and passing attack which offset the power drives of the Mackmen. A beautifully blocked kick resulted in the Teds first touchdown, and a sweeping end run accounted for the other score. The outcome was Roosevelt 14, McClymonds 6. In the outstanding game of a mediocre season the Cowboys emerged victorious over a much heavier Oakland team. Unleashing a passing attack that could have enabled them to overcome any of their previous opponents, the Teddies could not be stopped. Reds 13, Cats 7. San Leandro gained a lucky tie in the Roosevelt game. They scored on a fumble behind the goal; Roosevelt tallied on a blocked kick. Uni defeated a downhearted Cowboy eleven 5 to 0 because of the absence of Tommy Fitzpatrick. Fremont dumped the Roughriders by a 12 to 0 score.

FINIS

These pages unfold the events, poured and cast from the pools of life, which gush forth beneath the portals of Roosevelt High. Deep down into the heart of everyone they inject the memories of gayer hours, perhaps shaded now and then with darker moments, but always with happiness. They are, in fact, part of our lives, the portion in which our character, our very souls have been hewed into a more mature and sturdier mold, we hope. Perhaps the sculptors were rough at times and their tools were sharp at various spots, but they did their work well and should be praised for accomplishing the tasks from the raw material presented to them. One scene from our drama of life left us with its program of the major events is in the form of this Lariat. This keepsake, then, is treasured as the only material evidence of the characters, and episodes that have taken place during the past semester. It is, therefore, invaluable. We acknowledge with deep gratitude all assistance given us. And particularly do we want to mention Henry Hardt, for the cover and title page, the vice principals and counselors for their assistance in the taking of pictures, Miss Juanita Nicholson, art advisor; Miss Minnie Sorum, publication advisor, and the Barboni Studio for all the senior pictures and most of the group pictures.
